Re: Coastal Zone Management Federal Consistency Decision for SR 109 Ocean City to Taholah Remove Fish Barriers – Site 12 (Corps No. NWS-2025-0051-DOT), Un-named Tributary to Pacific Ocean, Grays Harbor, Washington

Dear Ben Ford:

On July 2, 2025, the Department of Ecology (Ecology) received a Certification of Consistency with the Washington State Coastal Zone Management Program (CZMP) for the above project. Ecology issued a 21-day public notice on July 16, 2025. Pursuant to Section 307(c)(3) of the Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972 as amended, Ecology concurs with the WA Department of Transportation's determination that the proposed work is consistent with Washington's CZMP.

The project will replace an existing concrete fish barrier culvert with a fish passable box culvert. The new culvert is designed to accommodate a minimum hydraulic opening of 17 feet and provide an estimated gain of 6,353 linear feet of in-stream habitat. Other habitat elements include incorporating large woody debris along the banks of the stream and meandering the channel when aligning the stream to the new structure. Two meander bars will be installed within the box culvert itself.

During construction, the stream will be diverted to protect water quality during all channel work. Fish will be excluded from the work area by installing fish exclusion nets. All temporary impacts from clearing and grading will be managed during construction using best management practices to control stormwater runoff and sediment erosion. At the end of construction these areas will be restored and replanted.

The project site is located on SR 109 at mile post 33.87 in Grays Harbor County, WA where an un-named tributary to the Pacific Ocean flows under the roadway.
