Periodic Review Available for Public Comment

Ecology invites you to review and comment on a document called a periodic review for a portion of the North Head Lighthouse Site (Site). A periodic review is conducted every five years after a cleanup action has been initiated at a Site, as required by the Model Toxics Control Act. The purposes of the review are to evaluate Site conditions to ensure continued protection of human health and the environment.

Site Background

The North Head Lighthouse is a historical structure constructed in the 1897. Ownership of the lighthouse was transferred from the U.S. Coast Guard to Washington State Parks in November 2012.

Lead paint chips had fallen off this historical lighthouse and contaminated nearby soils. The U.S. Coast Guard and their consultants completed cleanup activities at this Site in 2011. Although most of the lead in the soil has been removed, some contaminated soil remains in areas that could not be excavated at a depth greater than six inches. Ecology issued a No Further Action letter on December 9, 2011, following a Site visit to inspect the area.

What Happens Next?

Ecology will review comments received during the comment period and make recommendations for suggested changes. The periodic review will become final if no significant changes are made. An additional public comment period will be held if significant changes are made.
