P.O. Box 1257

Dear Mr. Skance:

Re: Reported Release of Hazardous Substances and Potential Liability for the Releases at Sites Listed in Enclosure 1

Under the Model Toxics Control Act (MTCA), chapter 70.105D RCW, which governs the cleanup of hazardous waste sites in Washington State, the Department of Ecology (Ecology) may identify persons that it finds liable for the release of hazardous substances at a site. Before making such a finding, Ecology must provide persons with notice and an opportunity to comment on the proposed finding. Any person whom Ecology finds, based on credible evidence, to be liable is known as a "potential liable person" or "PLP".

Ecology has reviewed data that you have submitted and that Ecology has obtained for the sites listed in Enclosure 1. As a result of Ecology's review, Ecology believes that releases of a hazardous substance have occurred at each site and that further action will be required. Based on recent and previous review of multiple site reports over many years, Ecology has added these sites to our Leaking Underground Storage Tanks List. For site not already in our database of suspected hazardous waste sites, Ecology intends to add sites in Enclosure 1 to our database of suspected hazardous waste sites.

Proposed Finding of Liability

Ecology is proposing to find Atlantic Richfield Co (ARCO) liable under RCW 70.105D.040 for the release of hazardous substances at each of the sites listed in Enclosure 1. This proposed finding is based on the following evidence:

Atlantic Richfield Company (a BP affiliated company) is doing business in Washington State as, or has otherwise purchased, sold, or operated properties in Washington State formerly owned or operated by Atlantic Richfield Company (ARCO), British Petroleum (BP), BP West Coast Products LLC, Amoco, BP Amoco. The taxpayer of record, seller of record, former site owner, or site operator for the 114 sites listed in Enclosure 1.

Opportunity to Respond to Proposed Finding of Liability

In response to Ecology's proposed finding of liability, you may either:

1. Accept your status as a PLP without admitting liability and expedite the process through a voluntary waiver of your right to comment. This may be accomplished by signing and returning the enclosed form (Enclosure 2) or by sending a letter containing similar information to Ecology;
2. Challenge your status as a PLP by submitting written comments to Ecology within sixty (60) calendar days of the date you receive this letter; or
3. Choose not to comment on your status as a PLP.

Please submit your waiver or written comments to the following address:

Carrie Pederson
Northwest Regional Office, Toxic Cleanup Program
3190 160th Avenue SE
Bellevue, WA 98008-5452

After reviewing any comments submitted or after 60 days if no response has been received, Ecology will make a final determination regarding your status as a PLP for each site listed in Enclosure 1 and provide you with written notice of that determination.

Identification of Other Potentially Liable Persons

Ecology may notify additional persons that may be potentially liable for the release of hazardous substances at one or more of the sites listed in Enclosure 1. Ecology is looking into who else may be PLPs at one or more of these sites. If you are aware of any other persons who may be liable for the releases of hazardous substances at each of the 114 sites listed in Enclosure 1, Ecology encourages you to provide us with their identities and the reason you believe they are liable. Ecology also suggests you contact these other persons to discuss how you can jointly work together to most efficiently clean up these sites.

Responsibility and Scope of Potential Liability

Please note that Ecology may either conduct, or require PLPs to conduct, remedial actions to investigate and clean up the release of hazardous substances at a site. PLPs are encouraged to initiate discussions and negotiations with Ecology and the Office of the Attorney General that may lead to an agreement on the remedial actions to be conducted.

Please note that each liable person is strictly liable, jointly and severally, for all remedial action costs and for all natural resource damages resulting from the release of hazardous substances at a site. If Ecology incurs remedial action costs in connection with the investigation or cleanup of real property and those costs are not reimbursed, then Ecology has the authority under RCW 70.105D.055 to file a lien against that real property to recover those costs.

Next Steps in Cleanup Process

In response to the release of hazardous substances at each site, Ecology intends to initiate discussions under MTCA with ARCO and/or other PLPs for an order or decree to perform necessary site investigations, remedial actions, and monitoring, including reimbursement of costs to Ecology for expenses incurred. For a description of the process for cleaning up a hazardous waste site under MTCA, please refer to the enclosed fact sheet (Enclosure 3)

Ecology's policy is to work cooperatively with PLPs to accomplish the prompt and effective cleanup of hazardous waste sites. Please note that your cooperation in planning or conducting remedial actions at each of the sites listed in Enclosure 1 is not an admission of guilt or liability.

If you have any questions or comments, please contact me at (425) 649-7254. Thank you for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Carrie Pederson

Model Toxics Control Act Cleanup Regulation: Process for Cleanup of Hazardous Waste Sites

In March of 1989, an innovative, citizen-mandated toxic waste cleanup law went into effect in Washington, changing the way hazardous waste sites in this state are cleaned up. Passed by voters as Initiative 97, this law is known as the Model Toxics Control Act, chapter 70.105D RCW. This fact sheet provides a brief overview of the process for the cleanup of contaminated sites under the rules Ecology adopted to implement that Act (chapter 173-340 WAC).

How the Law Works

The cleanup of hazardous waste sites is complex and expensive. In an effort to avoid the confusion and delays associated with the federal Superfund program, the Model Toxics Control Act is designed to be as streamlined as possible. It sets strict cleanup standards to ensure that the quality of cleanup and protection of human health and the environment are not compromised. At the same time, the rules that guide cleanup under the Act have built-in flexibility to allow cleanups to be addressed on a site-specific basis.

The Model Toxics Control Act funds hazardous waste cleanup through a tax on the wholesale value of hazardous substances. The tax is imposed on the first in-state possessor of hazardous substances at the rate of 0.7 percent, or $7 per $1,000. Since its passage in 1988, the Act has guided the cleanup of thousands of hazardous waste sites that dot the Washington landscape. The Washington State Department of Ecology's Toxic Cleanup Program ensures that these sites are investigated and cleaned up.

What Constitutes a Hazardous Waste Site?

Any owner or operator who has information that a hazardous substance has been released to the environment at the owner or operator's facility and may be a threat to human health or the environment must report this information to the Department of Ecology (Ecology). If an "initial investigation" by Ecology confirms further action (such as testing or cleanup) may be necessary, the facility is entered onto either Ecology's "Integrated Site Information System" database or "Leaking Underground Storage Tank" database. These are computerized databases used to track progress on all confirmed or suspected contaminated sites in Washington State. All confirmed sites that have not been already voluntarily cleaned up are ranked and placed on the state "Hazardous Sites List." Owners, operators, and other persons known to be potentially liable for the cleanup of the site will receive an "Early Notice Letter" from Ecology notifying them that their site is suspected of needing cleanup, and that it is Ecology's policy to work cooperatively with them to accomplish prompt and effective cleanup.
