

Available for review and comment: Legal agreement for Lower Duwamish Waterway cleanup

The City of Seattle, King County, and the Boeing Company, along with other potentially liable parties, have completed negotiations on an agreement for the cleanup of contaminated sediments in the Lower Duwamish Waterway Superfund Site with the Washington Department of Ecology and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Ecology and the EPA are responsible for enforcing the agreement which addresses:

- Who will carry out the EPA's cleanup plan?
- What is the timeline for the cleanup?
- How much each party will contribute financially?

This agreement is written in a legal document called a consent decree. The U.S. Department of Justice has filed the consent decree in federal court. It is legally binding when approved by the court. Learn more about the public comment period for the consent decree on our webpage.
