

Adjudication — what you need to know

The Department of Ecology recently filed an adjudication in Whatcom County Superior Court. Adjudication is a court process to review and prioritize all water use in an area.

- Later this year, water users will receive certified mail including a summons, instructions and a court claim form.
- If you use water directly from surface or groundwater, you must follow the instructions and file a court claim form. If you only use water from a city or other public service, you do not need to file a form.
- Even small groundwater uses that do not require permits, including single homes on wells, still need to file a claim form.
- You do not need a water meter to submit your required court claim form.
